COLLINS BOY DEAD OF WOUND

Tetanus Resulted and End Came Early Yesterday Morning.

NEGRO IS IN HENDERSON

Different Version Has Been Given of the Trouble, Making Collins the Aggressor.

Blakeley Collins, the young white boy who was shot Monday afternoon by Charles Coleman, colored, died yesterday morning, of tetanus, resulting from his wound. He was shot through the right breast by a ball from a .38 calibre pistol.

His condition had been improving right along and he was believed to be on a fair way to recovery, when the complication set in that resulted fatally.

The burial will take place at the old Collins burying ground near Lafayette. Coleman was taken north Tuesday night, it being reported that he had been carried to both Madisonville and Henderson. He is now in the jail at Henderson.

The first report was that the shooting was without provocation, but an entirely different version has since been received.

Later reports of the shooting make out a reasonably strong plea of self defense for Coleman. The boy had a pistol and also a razor in his hand, it is said, and while the pistol was out of condition the negro did not know that it was harmless. The report is that the boy was advancing upon Coleman and daring him to keep his threat and "cut his liver out" and that the negro shot twice into the ground and only shot the third time when the boy continued to advance.

Our information is that this version is now generally believed and that the feeling against Coleman has subsided.

THE PRESBYTERIAN REVIVAL BEGINS.

Rev. Frank H. Wright's Sermon Heard Thursday Night By Large and Appreciative Congregation.

A large congregation greeted the Rev. Mr. Wright at his first sermon at Westminster Presbyterian Church Thursday night. With Miss Nourse at the piano and Mr. Mayo directing a large chorus the music was a prominent feature of the service and provided an inspiring preparation for the sermon. Mr. Wright took as his text, Acts 1:8—"And ye shall be witnesses unto me," the theme being "Witnesses of Christ."

The sermon struck the keynote of the meeting and was an earnest call to consecration on the part of the members of the church. Mr. Wright is a preacher of unusual simplicity and power and has already won his way into the hearts of those who heard him.

At the close of the sermon he sang a solo in a rich, clear barytone that stamped him as a singer of great power and his music will not be the least attractive part of his work during the ten days that he is to be here. In him and in Mr. Mayo the church has secured the finest possible musical talent and they will frequently be heard in duets in addition to the solo.
